Intrahealth was incorporated in 1997 with a mission to develop leading-edge electronic medical record software for the community healthcare markets with an emphasis on information tools that support Integration of the delivery system. The majority of our customers are diverse and multidisciplinary health providers and include primary care, mental health, community health, specialist health care, sexual health, diabetes, health promotion, health protection, indigenous people's health, etc with integrations into other healthcare environments. In the early 2000's Intrahealth recognised a global shift towards integrated community care provision and a patient centric approach and went about analysing the Australian, New Zealand, UK and Canadian markets, looking at trends in health delivery and determined how a single product set could work across many different segments. The result was a highly flexible "platform" approach with two editions: an enterprise variant and a cloud variant built on the fault tolerance and scalability of the Enterprise architecture. Our largest customer has 4,000 users of which 1,600+ are concurrent at any one time.
